BENGALURU, DISMISSING THE CLAIM PETITION FOR COMPENSATION.

THIS APPEAL, COMING ON FOR ADMISSION, THIS DAY, JUDGMENT WAS DELIVERED THEREIN AS UNDER:

CORAM: HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE HANCHATE SANJEEVKUMAR

ORAL JUDGMENT

Though the appeal is listed for admission, with consent of both the learned counsel appearing for the parties, the matter is taken up for final disposal.

2. This appeal is filed by the claimants being the parents of the deceased challenging the order dated 09.10.2018 passed in OA II U 056 of 2017 on the file of Railway Claims Tribunal, Bengaluru Bench, Bengaluru<sup>1</sup>, thereby, the claim petition filed by the claimants is dismissed.

3. It is the case of the claimants that the deceased is their son and on 19.08.2016, the deceased in order to meet his friends at Bangarpet went to Bengaluru City Railway Station, purchased a journey ticket for his travel and travelled from Bengaluru to Bangarpet by some unknown train. During the course of journey, he accidentally fell down from the moving train and sustained grievous injuries and succumbed to the injuries on the spot.

4. Upon the claim petition filed by the claimants, the Tribunal dismissed the same on the reason that at the time of accident, in and around, there were several trains going towards Bengaluru-Chennai and the only train by which the deceased was alleged to have boarded would be train bearing No.22626-Double Decker, in which issuance of open ticket is not permissible and also the ticket to travel in the said Double Decker train is exorbitant one. Therefore, there were no chances that the deceased would have travelled in the said train. Hence, the deceased was not a bona fide passenger; thus dismissed the claim petition.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants/applicants submitted that admittedly, the deceased fell down from the moving train in the Railway Station and the eyewitness examined is an auto driver who deposed that the deceased fell down from the moving train and died and there is no contra evidence by the respondent/Railway. Hence, they are entitled to compensation.

6. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent/Railway Authorities justified the order passed by the Tribunal. Hence, prays to dismiss the appeal.

7. Just because the journey ticket is not produced is not a ground to dismiss the claim petition. The claimants have deposed in the affidavit that the deceased by purchasing the journey ticket travelled is a prima facie evidence to consider that the deceased travelled along with journey ticket; then for rebuttal of the same, the respondent/Railway has not led evidence, but there is no rebuttal evidence. Further, an eyewitness is examined by the name Ramakrishna, who is an auto driver on the said location, has stated that after seeing the same and observing that the deceased had sustained fatal injuries and before informing to Ambulance (108), the deceased succumbed to the injuries. There is no contra evidence by the respondent/Railway Authorities for disbelieving eye witness.

8. Furthermore, the complaint, FIR, Inquest Panchanama and Post Mortem Report prove the fact that the deceased died in the railway accident. When this being the fact, the reasonings given by the Tribunal that since the deceased was travelling in the Double Decker train and the fare of the ticket is an exorbitant one, the only train by which the deceased had travelled is the said train. For all these reasons, in the presumptive observations, it is not disputed that the said Double Decker train had a stop at Bangarpet. When this being the fact proved and the death of the deceased in the railway station and the witness examined is an eyewitness as above stated therefore, the deceased found to be a bona fide passenger. Hence, declining the claim by the claimants is not correct. Therefore, the Tribunal is not correct in dismissing the claim of the applicants; hence, by setting aside the impugned order passed by the Tribunal, the appeal is liable to be allowed. Therefore, the claimants are entitled to compensation.

9. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of DOLI RANI SAHA vs. UNION OF INDIA<sup>2</sup> in paragraph No.13 has held as under:

"13. From the recapitulation of the various judicial pronouncements leading to the present appeal, it can be seen that the primary issue is whether the deceased was travelling on the train in question. In Rina Deva (supra), a two-Judge Bench of this Court considered the question of the party on which the burden of proof will lie in cases where the body of the deceased is found on railway premises. This Court held that the initial burden would be on the claimant, which could be discharged by filing an affidavit of the relevant facts. Once the claimant did so, the burden would then shift to the Railways. Significantly, it also held that the mere absence of a ticket would not negate the claim that the deceased was a bona fide passenger. The relevant extract from the ruling of the Court is reproduced below:

"29. We thus hold that mere presence of a body on the railway premises will not be conclusive to hold that the injured or deceased was a bona fide passenger for which claim for compensation could be maintained. However, mere absence of ticket with such injured or deceased will not negative the claim that he was a bona fide passenger. Initial burden will be on the claimant which can be discharged by filing an affidavit of the relevant facts and burden will then shift on the Railways and the issue can be decided on the facts shown or the attending circumstances. This will have to be dealt with from case to case on the basis of facts found. The legal position in this regard will stand explained accordingly."

10. The judgment of this Court in the case of MAHABOOB SAB & ANOTHER VS. UNION OF INDIA<sup>3</sup> in paragraphs No.12 & 17 has held as under:

"12. Per contra, Railways are claiming that it is not an untoward incident, but it is self-inflicted injury as contemplated under Section 124(a) Proviso (b). In view of these rival contentions, it would be necessary to examine the contentions raised by claimants before Tribunal in claim petition and evidence tendered by claimants, which is to the following effect: That the petitioners No.1 and 2 are the father and mother of the deceased Shahnawaz hereinafter called the deceased. The deceased was travelling Train No.1014 as a bona fide passenger. The deceased fell off from the train at Yelahanka Railway station, due to the huge jerk in the train. The deceased had suffered multiple injuries. The deceased was taken to Victoria Hospital for treatment and admitted as indoor patient. The duty doctors attended the deceased and offered all possible treatment to save the life of deceased. But the deceased succumbed to the injuries on 06.09.2003.

17. The fact that Railways Act is a beneficial piece of legislation cannot be lost sight of by this Court and it should receive a liberal and wider interpretation and purposeful construction of an enactment is one, which gives effect of legislative intent. Particularly when such beneficial legislation is called in question, it should receive a liberal interpretation and applying a strained interpretation would defeat the legislative purpose for which enactment is brought about."

11. In the case of UNION OF INDIA VS. RINA DEVA<sup>4</sup>, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"Re: (ii) Application of Principle of Strict Liability - Concept of Self Inflicted Injury

16.1. From the judgments cited at the Bar we do not see any conflict on the applicability of the principle of strict liability. Sections 124 and Section 124A provide that compensation is payable whether or not there has been wrongful act, neglect or fault on the part of the railway administration in the case of an accident or in the case of an 'untoward incident'. Only exceptions are those provided under proviso to Section 124A. In Prabhakaran Vijaya Kumar (AIR 2009 SC (Supp) 383) (supra) it was held that Section 124A lays down strict liability or no fault liability in case of railway accidents. Where principle of strict liability applies, proof of negligence is not required. This principle has been reiterated in Jameela (AIR 2010 SC 3705) (supra).

16.2. Coming to the proviso to Section 124A to the effect that no compensation is payable if passenger dies or suffers injury due to the situations mentioned therein, there is no difficulty as regards suicide or attempted suicide in which case no compensation may be payable. Conflict of opinions in High Courts has arisen on understanding the expression 'self inflicted injury' in the proviso. In some decisions it has been held that injury or death because of negligence of the victim was at par with self inflicted injury. We may refer to the decisions of High Courts of Kerala in Joseph PT (AIR 2014 SC Ker 12) (supra), Bombay in Pushpa (supra) and Delhi in Shayam Narayan (supra) on this point.

16.3. In Joseph PT (AIR 2014 Ker 12) (supra), the victim received injuries in the course of entering a train which started moving. Question was whether his claim that he had suffered injuries in an 'untoward incident' as defined under Section 123(c) could be upheld or whether he was covered by proviso to Section 124A clause (b). The High Court held that while in the case of suicide or attempt to commit suicide, intentional act is essential. Since the concept of 'self inflicted injury' is distinct from an attempted suicide, such intention is not required and even without such intention if a person acts negligently, injuries suffered in such an accident will amount to 'self inflicted injury'. Relevant observations are:

"Therefore, the two limbs of the Proviso should be construed to have two different objectives to be achieved. We can understand the meaning of the term "self-inflicted injury" not only from the sources provided by the dictionaries, but also from the context in which it is used in the statute. The term "self-inflicted injury" used in the statute can be deduced as one which a person suffers on account of one's own action, which is something more than a rash or negligent act. But it shall not be an intentional act of attempted suicide. While there may be cases where there is intention to inflict oneself with injury amounting to self-inflicted injury, which falls short of an attempt to commit suicide, there can also be cases where, irrespective of intention, a person may act with total recklessness, in that, he may throw all norms of caution to the wind and regardless to his age, circumstances, etc. act to his detriment. Facts of this case show that the appellant attempted to board a moving train from the off side unmindful of his age and fully aware of the positional disadvantageous and dangers of boarding a train from a level lower than the footboard of the train. It is common knowledge that the footboard and handrails at the doors of the compartment are designed to suit the convenience of the passengers for boarding from and alighting to the platform. And at the same time, when a person is trying to board the train from the non-platform side, he will be standing on the heap of rubbles kept beneath the track and that too in a lower level. Further more, he will have to stretch himself to catch the handrails and struggle to climb up through the footboard hanging beneath the bogie. The probability of danger is increased in arithmetic progression when the train is moving. Visualising all these things in mind, it can only be held that the act of the appellant was the height of carelessness, imprudence and foolhardiness. It is indisputable that the purpose of Section 124A of the Act is to provide a speedy remedy to an injured passenger or to the dependants of a deceased passenger involved in an untoward incident. Section 124A of the Act provides for compensation to a passenger or his dependants who suffers injury or death, as the case may be, in an untoward incident even where the untoward incident is not the consequence of any wrongful act, neglect or default on the part of Railway Administration. to this extent, it can be said to be a no-fault liability. Even though the provisions relating to payment of compensation in the Act can be said to be a piece a beneficial legislation, it cannot be stretched too much to reward a person who acts callously, unwisely or imprudently. There is no provision of law brought to our notice permitting the passengers to entrain from the non-platform side of the railway track. However, the counsel for the respondent did not show any provision of law prohibiting the same. The question whether an act by which a passenger sustains injury while boarding a train through the off side, is a selfinflicted injury or not depends on the facts of each case. Merely because a person suffered injury in the process of getting into the train through the off side, it may not be sufficient to term it as a selfinflicted injury, unless the facts and circumstances show that his act was totally imprudent, irrational, callous and unmindful of the consequences. All the facts and circumstances established in this case would show that the act of the appellant was with full knowledge of the imminent possibility of endangering his life or limb and therefore, it squarely comes within the term "self-inflicted injury" defined in Section 124A Proviso (b) of the Act."

16.4. In Pushpa (supra) a hawker died in the course of boarding a train. It was held that he was not entitled to compensation as it was a case of 'self inflicted injury'. The relevant observations are:

"Such an attempt by a hawker has been viewed by the trial Court as something amounting to criminal negligence on his part and also an effort to inflict injuries to himself. The trial Court reasoned that if the deceased had to sell his goods by boarding a train, he should have ensured to do so only when it was quite safe for him to get on to the train or otherwise he could have avoided catching the train and waited for another train to come. It also hinted that there was absolutely no compulsion or hurry for the deceased in the present case to make an attempt to somehow or the other board the train while it was gathering speed."

16.5. In Shyam Narayan (2017 AAC 1833 (Del.)(supra), same view was taken which is as follows:

"6(ii) I cannot agree with the arguments urged on behalf of the appellants/applicants in the facts of the present case because there is a difference between an untoward incident and an act of criminal negligence. Whereas negligence will not disentitle grant of compensation under the Railways Act, however, once the negligence becomes a criminal negligence and self-inflicted injury then compensation cannot be granted. This is specifically provided in the first proviso to Section 124-A of the Railways Act which provides that compensation will not be payable in case the death takes place on account of suicide or attempted suicide, self inflicted injury, bona fide passenger's own criminal act or an act committed by the deceased in the state of intoxication or insanity."

16.6. We are unable to uphold the above view as the concept of 'self inflicted injury' would require intention to inflict such injury and not mere negligence of any particular degree. Doing so would amount to invoking the principle of contributory negligence which cannot be done in the case of liability based on 'no fault theory'. We may in this connection refer to judgment of this Court in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Sunil Kumar 2017 (13) SCALE 652 : (AIR 2017 SC 5710) laying down that plea of negligence of the victim cannot be allowed in claim based on 'no fault theory' under Section 163A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. Accordingly, we hold that death or injury in the course of boarding or de-boarding a train will be an 'untoward incident' entitling a victim to the compensation and will not fall under the proviso to Section 124A merely on the plea of negligence of the victim as a contributing factor."

12. As per Section 124A of the Railways Act, 1989, the compensation is to be payable on the principle of strict liability. Therefore, the appellants/applicants have proved their claim as discussed above and are entitled for compensation from the respondent-Railway Authorities. Therefore, the judgment passed by the Railway Claims Tribunal is liable to be set aside.

13. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of KAMUKAYI AND OTHERS vs. UNION OF INDIA AND OTHERS<sup>5</sup>, wherein at paragraph No.23 it is held as under:

"23. Accordingly and as per above discussion we allow this appeal and set aside the impugned judgment dated 26.03.2021 passed by the High Court and also the Claims Tribunal dated 29.06.2017. Consequently, claim application is allowed. The appellants are held entitled for compensation to the tune of Rs.4,00,000/- along with interest @ 7% p.a. from the date of filing the claim application till its realisation. It is made clear that after applying the rate of interest, if the final figure is less than Rs.8,00,000/-, then appellants shall be entitled to Rs.8,00,000/-. The amount of compensation be satisfied by the respondents within a period of eight weeks. No order as to costs."

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of KAMUKAYI AND OTHERS vs. UNION OF INDIA AND OTHERS<sup>6</sup> has observed at paragraph No.22, which reads as follows:

"22. The said judgment was further explained by this Court in Radha Yadav<sup>7</sup>, relevant para 11 is reproduced as thus:

"11. The issue raised in the matter does not really require any elaboration as in our view, the judgment of this Court in Rina Devi<sup>8</sup> is very clear. What this Court has laid down is that the amount of compensation payable on the date of accident with reasonable rate of interest shall first be calculated. If the amount so calculated is less than the amount prescribed as on the date of the award, the claimant would be entitled to higher of these two amounts. Therefore, if the liability had arisen before the amendment was brought in, the basic figure would be as per the Schedule as was in existence before the amendment and

on such basic figure reasonable rate of interest would be calculated. If there be any difference between the amount so calculated and the amount prescribed in the Schedule as on the date of the award, the higher of two figures would be the measure of compensation. For instance, in case of a death in an accident which occurred before amendment, the basic figure would be Rs.4,00,000. If, after applying reasonable rate of interest, the final figure were to be less than Rs.8,00,000, which was brought in by way of amendment, the claimant would be entitled to Rs.8,00,000. If, however, the amount of original compensation with rate of interest were to exceed the sum of Rs.8,00,000 the compensation would be in terms of figure in excess of Rs.8,00,000. The idea is to afford the benefit of the amendment, to the extent possible. Thus, according to us, the matter is crystal clear. The issue does not need any further clarification or elaboration."

15. Therefore, as per this order, if the compensation amount awarded with interest exceeds a sum of Rs.8,00,000/-, then the compensation would be in terms of figure excess of Rs.8,00,000/-. Therefore, in the present case also, the accident occurred is before 19.08.2016. Hence, by granting award of Rs.4,00,000/- with interest at the rate of 8% p.a., from the date of petition till realization, if it exceeds Rs.8,00,000/-, then the said exceeded amount shall be given to the appellants/claimants. If the final figure comes less than Rs.8,00,000/-, then the appellants/claimants are entitled to Rs.8,00,000/-.

16. Accordingly, I proceed to pass the following

ORDER

- i. The appeal is allowed.
- ii. The impugned order dated 09.10.2018 passed in OA II U 056 of 2017 on the file of Railway Claims Tribunal, Bengaluru Bench, Bengaluru, is set aside.
- iii. The applicants being father and mother of the deceased are entitled to compensation of Rs.4,00,000/- along with interest at the rate of 8% p.a. from the date of petition till the date of realization and if it exceeds Rs.8,00,000/- then such exceeded amount shall be paid to the appellants/applicants and if the final amount comes less than Rs.8,00,000/-, then the appellants/applicants are entitled to Rs.8,00,000/-.
- iv. The entire amount shall be released in favour of appellants/applicants on proper identification.

- v. The respondent/Railway Authorities shall disburse and deposit the compensation amount after receipt of certified copy of this order.
- vi. The claimants are not entitled to interest for the delayed period of 69 days in filing the appeal.
- vii. Registry is directed to send a copy of this judgment to the Tribunal.
- viii. Draw the award accordingly.
- ix. No order as to costs.
